RUMOR HAS IT FUSIONISTS WIN

Asserted That Election of 1905 Will Be Thrown Out.

Reports Persistently Forecast Decision.

Even Purport To Give How Judges Voted.

Affirm That Only One Man Will Dissent.

INFORMATION NOT OFFICIAL.

Persistent rumors, generally current in Louisville, that the Court of Appeals has determined the Louisville election contest cases in favor of the Fusionists and will hand down a decision holding that no election was held in Louisville in 1905, have caused great excitement among the politicians of both sides. These rumors, which spread all over Louisville yesterday, set tongues wagging and awakened the feeling which existed in Louisville during the days of the Fusion campaign, when the city was upset and on edge for weeks.

While no one attempted to say that the information had come from any of the Judges of the Court of Appeals, it was confidently asserted by certain Fusion leaders, and also reported from Democratic sources, that the hard and long-fought cases have been determined, and that, by a vote of 5 to 1, Judge Cantrill not voting, the court will decide that Louisville must have another election for Mayor and city officers in November of the present year.

Conferred Last Thursday.

The first conference by the Judges in considering the Louisville cases was held last Thursday. An effort was made to have a conference in Frankfort yesterday and Judge Barker was called to Frankfort from Louisville, but the conference was not held on account of the illness of Judge Hobson.

The Louisville cases have been placed in the hands of Judge Lassing, who will write the opinion of the court. The custom is usually for the Judge writing the opinion to submit it to the court for its opinion, but the court sometimes passes on a case before the opinion has been written. Even if the cases have been determined it may be several days or a week before a decision is announced, as the opinion must be written.

It is also possible that the court may at the same time construe the law as to who would be entitled to hold the offices if Mr. Barth and the others are removed.

Rumors Go Into Detail.

Fusion leaders even go so far as to say that they received information to the effect that when the cases were first taken up in the court, in consultation, Judges O'Rear, Barker and Lassing stated that they were willing to decide the cases in favor of the Fusionists without further consideration, believing that the facts already in their possession showed that there really was no legal election in Louisville.

These same Fusion leaders also assert that Judge Hobson would not agree to this being done, and said that in view of the importance of the cases and the points of law involved it would be better to have the cases further considered before a decision was reached. From the same sources comes the information that later Judges Hobson and Settle came over to the side favored by Judges O'Rear, Barker and Lassing and voted with them in favor of the Fusionists. The reports said that Judge Nunn will be the only one of the Judges to dissent from the opinion of the court, and that he alone will vote for the Democrats.

Since the contest cases were submitted to the Court of Appeals several weeks ago rumors of all kinds have been flying in Louisville and many reports have been current regarding the court's decision. During the last two or three days, however, and especially on yesterday, these rumors crystallized into one, which remained persistently in front and which was commonly repeated on the streets and in the hotels. This report or rumor came from both Democratic and Fusionist sources and was the same as that said to have been received by the Fusion leaders. It said that the cases would be decided and that the Democrats would lose.

One rumor had it that the decision will be handed down to-morrow. Another report was that the decision would not come until Wednesday, but both of these rumors were to the same effect, that the court will declare no election was held in Louisville.

Judges Deny Decision.

In contravention of these reports are statements made only last Saturday by two of the Judges of the Court of Appeals. They were in Louisville Saturday

STAND IN WITH THE HARGISES

Advice Given At Frankfort To John Smith.

Confessed Conspirator Gives Further Testimony.

Prosecution Makes New and Important Points.

B. J. EWEN WILL BE WITNESS.

Grainger May Be Mayor.

I am asserted by Democratic attorneys that in the event of a decision in favor of the Fusionists and the throwing out of the election held in 1905, the old city officers will resume their official positions, and hold them until another election has been held. It is contended that Charles F. Grainger will become Mayor again, and that the men who were elected with him will go back to the City Hall and take up their old positions. The contention is that Mr. Grainger and the others were elected for four years, and until their successors are elected and qualify. It is contended by the Democratic attorneys that, in the event of the throwing out of the election, no successor having been elected or qualified, Mr. Grainger will continue to be Mayor, and will draw his salary for the last year and a half. It is stated that some of the Fusion attorneys also agree that this is the law, and that this procedure will be followed in the event of a decision declaring no election in 1905.

It is stated that there is no truth in the rumors generally circulated to the effect that Gov. Beckham will attempt to appoint a Mayor, in the event of a decision in favor of the Fusionists. It was reported that Gov. Beckham would appoint County Attorney R. W. Bingham as Mayor, in the event of the throwing out of the election. It was said that Gov. Beckham intended to appoint Mr. Bingham Mayor to serve, pending the settlement by the courts of the question as to who will be Mayor during the time before the election.

In view of these rumors, which have stirred up Louisville mightily during the last few days, the events of the near future are awaited with great interest.

THOMAS D. CHENAULT DIES NEAR RICHMOND

LARGEST LAND OWNER IN MADISON COUNTY.

WIDE FAMILY CONNECTION ALL OVER KENTUCKY.

ACTIVE IN BANKING CIRCLES.

Richmond, Ky., May 13.—[Special.]—Thomas D. Chenault, Sr., aged seventy years, one of the most prominent and wealthiest farmers of Madison, after long illness, died at 3 o'clock this morning at his home, "Cumberland View," on the Big Hill pike, five miles from this city. He was the largest land-owner in the county, owning at the time of his death 2,500 acres of bluegrass land, splendidly improved and stocked. His estate is estimated to be worth over $300,000.

Mr. Chenault was also the largest export cattle raiser in the county. He was a lifelong Democrat and a member of the prominent and numerous Chenault family of this and adjoining counties. He was a lineal descendant of the Rev. David Chenault, the famous pioneer minister of his day, who located near the old Booneborough fort in this county.

When in active business Mr. Chenault was president of the old Second National bank. When that institution was succeeded by the State Bank and Trust Company, he was made president of that bank. He is survived by his widow, who was a Miss Chenault, and seven children. The children are the Hon. J. B. Chenault, ex-insurance Commissioner and present Democratic nominee for Clerk of Court of Appeals; Messrs. Harvey and Thomas D. Chenault, prominent farmers of this county; Mrs. David P. Gay, of Winchester; Mrs. Albert McCowen and Misses Carlisle and Eleanor Chenault, of this city. The funeral services will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at "Cumberland View," and burial in the Richmond cemetery.

JOHN B. BRASHEAR WINS RACE FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

Madisonville, Ky., May 13.—[Special.]—John B. Brashear defeated D. S. Edwards for the Democratic nomination for Representative in the primary here to-day by a majority of about ninety votes, after one of the hardest-fought battles in the history of the county for any office. Mun Wilson, who made such a sensational race for the same nomination two years ago, received about eighty votes in this primary.

Dies of Old Age.

Henderson, Ky., May 13.—[Special.]—H. H. Katterjohn, aged eighty-three years, a retired business man, died to-day of old age. A widow and six children survive. He was born in Germany, testimony several thousand dollars were raised for him by popular subscription. When Jackson became a safe place of residence through the vigorous investigation of the murders. Even returned, and rebuilding his house with the money which had been given him, has since been a quiet resident of Jackson. He has not appeared on the witness stand for several years, as his testimony principally applied to the Marcum murder, but it is understood that the prosecution will place him on the stand during the present trial of Hargis.

Smith Again On Stand.

When court convened this morning John Smith, who had been on the stand when adjournment was taken Saturday evening, was placed in the witness box for cross-examination, which was conducted by E. P. Farrell, one of the attorneys for the defense. When asked his name the witness said it was "John B. Smith, the 'B.' He explained standing for Bagley. He was then questioned concerning his conversation with Hargis and Callahan which he had stated occurred at Frankfort in March, 1902. He repeated the version he gave Saturday and said Judge Hargis told him that if he was afraid of getting into trouble by going into the conspiracy he would go right then and get him a pardon from Gov. Beckham. The witness stated that Hargis said "I can get a pardon for any man in that penitentiary," pointing to the prison walls near by. The witness said this conversation took place near the Frankfort depot, and that as there was a crowd about the depot he, Hargis and Callahan, kept pressing him to join the conspiracy, which he claimed was made with James Hargis and Ed Callahan as architects.

Smith testified to-day that when Hargis and Callahan were urging him to join in the plot, during a conversation at the railroad depot at Frankfort, in March, 1902, Smith had pleaded that he was afraid of getting into trouble, when Hargis, pointing at the penitentiary walls nearby, exclaimed: "I can get a pardon for any man in that penitentiary," and Callahan had impressed upon him that he ought to "stand in with the Hargises."

TARDY JUSTICE DONE GEN. GARRARD'S HEIRS

FORTY-YEAR-OLD CLAIM FINALLY DECIDED.

FOR PROPERTY DESTROYED DURING CIVIL WAR.

NOW GOES TO CONGRESS.

Washington, May 13.—[Special.]—Through the action of the Court of Claims this morning tardy justice has at length been done for the heirs of Gen. T. T. Garrard. For over forty years Congress and the courts have been appealed to in behalf of the claimants, who, under the decision announced to-day, will receive about $18,000 in payment of damages done the salt wells near Manchester, Clay county, by United States troops. Judge J. H. Embury, formerly of Richmond, Ky., has been the counsel in the case for about thirty years. Recently Capt. C. C. Calhoun, of Lexington, has been associated with him.

Among the beneficiaries are Capt. Garrard, of the army; former Congressman White, of Clay county; Mrs. W. S. Hager, wife of the Democratic gubernatorial nominee; Steve Gibson, Charles Manning, J. N. Norwood, of Lexington, and others throughout the State.

In 1862 Gen. Buell had reason to believe that the Confederate forces intended to come to Manchester and appropriate a large quantity of salt on hand at the wells owned by the Garrards, Reids, Whites, Hortons and Chastains. The Confederates had frequently taken this course before, and Gen. Buell concluded to order the destruction of the wells. His orders were carried out to the letter and the property was demolished.

Two years after Gen. Garrard and other owners of the property asked to be reimbursed. They proved their loyalty to the Union, but for one reason or another they were never able to get favorable action on the claim.

In the early '70s Judge Embury was placed in charge of the claim. On several occasions he got it through the house or Senate. Finally it passed both branches, but Grant vetoed it.

It was then decided to try the Court of Claims. Through the late Senator Beck this was accomplished, and until to-day it has remained before that body. At the next session the claim will be certified to Congress by the court and the money will be appropriated.

Warning From Hargis.

Hardin Childress stated on the witness stand that some people had told Judge Hargis that Childress had said that Hargis killed Jim Cockrill and Hargis sent word to him not to cross his path. Childress went to Hargis and denied that he had said anything about him, and Hargis said he was all right.

Sam Hays said he saw Curt Jett immediately after the shooting in front of the courthouse, and Hargis called to Jett from the store to guard the courthouse. Other witnesses testified that Jett came out of the courthouse door very soon after the shooting, walked across to the Hargis store and quickly returned to the courthouse. The witnesses who heard the shots stated that there were between five and eight fired.

Ewen To Testify.

Among the witnesses who have arrived here to testify in the case are B. D. Ewen, whose testimony several years ago caused the first genuine prosecution for the series of murders in Jackson and shattered the whole fabric of the Hargises power in Breathitt. Ewen was taken up as a popular hero, and when his home was burned at Jackson soon after he had given his startling

KENTUCKY COURT IS REVERSED

Decision of Supreme Tribunal In Local Option Case.

Whisky May Be Received From Another State.

Matter Comes Clearly Within Interstate Commerce.

JUSTICE HARLAN DISSENTS.

Washington, May 13.—[Special.]—The United States Supreme Court to-day reversed the Kentucky Court of Appeals in the case of the Adams Express Company vs. the Commonwealth of Kentucky. The case came from the Circuit Court of Laurel county, where, at East Bernstadt, one George Muce received from the company a package of whisky, which was paid for on delivery, the same being a shipment commonly known as a C. O. D. shipment. The company was subsequently fined by the Laurel court, the decision was affirmed by the Kentucky Court of Appeals, and brought to Washington on a writ of error. The act under which the prosecution was brought was a subsection of 2557, of the Kentucky Statutes, 1905, commonly called the "C. O. D. Law," which is part of the State's general local option law, as amended in 1902.

Interstate Commerce.

The package, containing a gallon of whisky, was shipped from Cincinnati to Muce. The court therefore holds that the transaction was one of interstate commerce, and within the exclusive jurisdiction of Congress.

"The Kentucky statute," says Justice Brewer, in delivering the opinion, "is obviously an attempt to regulate such interstate commerce. This is hardly questioned by the Court of Appeals, and is beyond dispute. The Court of Appeals sustained the judgment upon these facts:

"Muce testified that he had not ordered the whisky; that he was not expecting it from Cincinnati, but, on going with his brother to the company's office at East Bernstadt, was told that it was there awaiting him; that he requested the agent to hold it until the succeeding Saturday, when he would come, pay for it, and take it away, and that on that day he did so, paying $3.85 for the whisky, the express charges having been prepaid at Cincinnati.

"The Kentucky court held that by reason of the retention of the package by the agent, the company ceased to hold it as carrier and had become a mere warehouseman; that, therefore, the statute, as applied to the transaction was not a regulation of commerce; and further, that as Muce had no contract for the sale of it in Cincinnati, but only with the company at East Bernstadt, that while there was no testimony showing that the company's agent at Cincinnati knew that whisky had not been ordered by Muce, yet its agent in Kentucky was so informed and, therefore, the company was deemed to have through its agent, knowledge that there was no interstate transaction and with that knowledge sold the whisky to Muce.

South Carolina Case.

"But that the agent consented to hold the whisky until Saturday did not destroy the character of the transaction as one of interstate commerce is settled," says the Supreme Court, "by the recent case of Heyman vs. the Southern Railway.

"In that case whisky had been forwarded to a party in Charleston, S. C., and after its arrival there was placed in the warehouse of the railroad company by its agent and there sold by Constables, asserting their right to do so, under the dispensary law of South Carolina. The point was made and sustained by the Supreme Court of Georgia, where action had been brought against the company for the value of the goods, that when the goods were replaced in the warehouse the carrier was thereafter liable only as a warehouseman."

The court then quotes freely from the Heyman-Southern railroad case and concludes:

"With reference to the testimony as to the knowledge by the company of the fact that the whisky had not been ordered by the consignee, it is sufficient to say that the averment in the indictment is that the express company was engaged in the business of a common carrier of packages, etc., and that the shipment and delivery were made and done in the usual course of its business.

"This excludes necessarily the assumption that the transaction was one of sale by the express company at East Bernstadt, and, of course, the company was under no obligation to offer testimony in support of that which the State admitted to be the fact.

"We do not mean to intimate that an express company may not also engage in the business of selling liquor in a State, contrary to its laws, or that the fact that the consignee did not order a shipment might not be evidence for a jury to consider upon the question whether the company was not, in addition to its express business, also selling liquor contrary to the statutes.

Sympathize With Efforts.

"It is enough to hold, as we do, that under the averments of this indictment such testimony is immaterial. Much as we sympathize with the efforts to put a stop to the sales of intoxicating liquors in defiance of the policy of a State, we are not at liberty to recognize any rule which will nullify or tend to weaken the power vested by the Constitution in Congress over interstate commerce. We therefore reverse the judgment of the Kentucky Court of Appeals and remand the case for further proceedings not inconsistent with this opinion.

The court also holds similarly in two other cases where liquor was shipped from Cincinnati to Barbourville and Hodgenville. Justice Harlan dissented in each case.

RAILROAD WILL WASH AWAY IMMENSE HILL

STREAM OF WATER UNDER ENORMOUS PRESSURE

WILL BE USED TO CUT OUT DIRT IN MOUNTAINS.

TO KEEP LONG TUNNEL CLEAR.

Lexington, Ky., May 13.—[Special.]—A unique engineering feat was begun to-day on the tunnel on the L. and E. railroad, near Natural Bridge. The road has been frequently obstructed this winter by mud washing down from the hillside above the northern mouth of the tunnel, and the effort is to prevent further difficulty on that score. It is proposed to literally wash away the side of the hill, one hundred feet high, back a distance of eighty-five feet from the mouth of the tunnel. The tunnel is over 800 feet long, but all but eighty-five feet near the entrance is through solid rock.

To wash away this immense quantity of earth, a siamese nozzle to a hose carrying 125-pound pressure to the inch is pressed against the hillside and the stream of water which it throws cuts into the earth like a drill. The water is furnished by a nearby creek, where a powerful pump is placed, and as the earth is washed away it flows in the shape of liquid mud into trenches which conduct to the sides of a fill which is being constructed for the road.

The scheme for removing the hill was suggested by W. A. McDowell, general manager of the L. and E. railroad, and has never been used east of the Mississippi river. It is an application of the principle used by gold and silver miners in the West. The work will consume several months.

UNPOPULAR OFFICER

"GIVEN THE SILENCE"

BATTALION OF MIDSHIPMEN SHOW THEIR DISLIKE.

RESTRICTED TO THE INSTITUTION AS PUNISHMENT.

SAT QUIET FOR TWO HOURS.

Annapolis, Md., May 13.—The whole membership of the first battalion of the brigade of midshipmen has been restricted for an indefinite period to the confines of the institution as a result of its members having "given the silence" to Lieut. Commander C. B. McVay, Jr., one of the discipline officers. The members of the battalion had taken exception to McVay's method of investigating their actions and determined to administer this form of rebuke to him.

The "silence" is as old as the navy itself. It is in the nature of a boycott. At the time agreed for its application those participating in it keep absolutely silent during the whole of some meal at which the officer is present in the midshipmen's mess hall. Ordinarily the dining-room at mealtime is a very noisy place, and silence when the 800 midshipmen are assembled there is decidedly noticeable.

When it was directed against Lieut. Commander McVay that officer withheld the order for the first battalion to leave the room at the end of the meal, after having dismissed the second battalion. He sat quietly at the table for nearly two hours, attempting by this means to force the remaining midshipmen to break their silence, but without effect.

Eventually he dismissed them and reported the matter to the commandant. As all the members of the first battalion participated, all were punished for disrespect to an officer.

TWO INJURED BY EXPLOSION OF PIPES

ELBOW IN OIL REFINERY LETS GO UNDER HEAVY PRESSURE.

Georgetown, Ky., May 13.—[Special.]—An explosion occurred here at the plant of the Indian Oil Refining Company this afternoon, when an elbow of one of the steam pipes of a boiler gave way under excessive pressure. Fireman J. Arvinston, formerly of Lexington, and J. J. Mobley, of Louisville, a bystander, were badly injured.

All the physicians of the city were summoned to their assistance, and all possible aid was rendered. They were finally carried to town by automobiles. Both have had scalp wounds, burns and bruises on the body.

Will Return To Work To-day.

Philadelphia, May 13.—The strike and lockout of bricklayers and masons in this city, which grew out of a dispute between the trades as to the rights of granite cutters, was declared off to-day. About 3,000 bricklayers and a total of 25,000 men in various branches of the building trades will return to work to-morrow.

WHEAT SHOOTS PAST DOLLAR

Buying Orders Poured In From All Sides.

Brokers Ready To Buy Millions of Bushels.

Advance Seems Based On Natural Conditions.

THE PROBLEM IN EUROPE.

Chicago, May 13.—In the most sensational opening in the history of the Chicago Board of Trade wheat to-day shot past the dollar mark. Heavy realizing sales pushed the market backward somewhat, but at the close the market was strong, and according to the demand on which the late advance has been made is still unsatisfied. The net advance to-day for wheat was four cents for the July and September options and 4½ cents for the December.

From the low point of Monday of last week, July wheats advanced 13½ cents, September has gone up 15½, and in the December option the high point was 16½ above the low price of last Monday.

Strong Bulge.

It was a certainty that a strong bulge would take place in the wheat market at the opening. Country orders had been poured in, seemingly in an endless stream and in obedience to them brokers stood ready to buy millions of bushels at the market price. Shorts were in a highly nervous condition and eager to cover. The result was that as soon as the gong sounded there was a terrific roar of voices all anxious to buy and nobody offering to sell.

The trade was too big and too broad to be followed with any certainty and brokers filled orders frequently several cents away from the point at which they had hoped to buy. The confusion was so great that for a few minutes but little actual business was transacted, the brokers fighting and struggling in the effort to get hold of wheat from anybody or at any price.

The July option sold, as soon as figures could be registered out of the confusion, anywhere between 93 and 94, which was 1¼ to 2½ cents higher than the close of Saturday. September opened at 95 to 96, which was up 1¼ to 5½ cents above the closing price of last week. December showed a wider range than either of the other options and the opening quotations ran at all figures between 96½ and 103. This price was 1¼ to 8 cents above the final quotations of Saturday.

Rush of Orders.

The rush of buying orders seemed to come from almost every city in the United States situated along a telegraph wire. They came from Winnipeg and from Louisiana and from points on the Pacific and Atlantic seaboard. The professional traders were of the opinion that the opening was a little too vigorous and the chance to seize profits on lines of long wheat carried over Sunday was tempting. As soon, therefore, as trade steadied a trifling, millions of bushels were thrown on the market in realizing sales and the advance for a time was checked.

The buying orders, however, still poured in, and the market soared up again. Again the long wheat came out and brought about a reaction, and again the country buyers forced it up. The situation was too strong for any man or any clique of men to stem. The country at large seemed determined to buy wheat at whatever price it could be had.

There was no claim in any direction that the market was being manipulated. The general opinion seemed to be that the advance was based on natural conditions, which seem certain to curtail in large degree the world's coming crop of wheat. The advance from all parts of the West and Northwest confirmed the previous reports of damage by weather and by insects, while a telegram from the Canadian Northwest declared that there was still no possibility of seeding in that district, and that every day of delay meant the loss of thousands of acres that might otherwise have been sown.

Foreign Markets.

Cablegrams reported the markets at Liverpool and Budapest to be in a highly excited condition, with prices advancing strongly. Liverpool was declared to be affected by gloomy reports from Russia, and it was the belief of many prominent commission men that Europe will be forced to buy heavily in the American market, and that the American market instead of being able to meet this demand will be scarcely strong enough to supply such wheat as is needed for home consumption.

Such prominent traders as Wm. H. Bartlett and James A. Hatten said that the conditions warranted the sensational advance in prices, declaring that the wheat problem for this year will be a difficult one for European buyers to solve. Among smaller traders, predictions were made that before the present advance has stopped, July wheat will go over $1.25, and possibly to $1.50.

DRIFTWOOD.

The Georgia Lee leaves for Memphis Thursday at noon. Capt. Sam Bryant is in command of her. The Glenmore had good trips from Louisville to Evansville yesterday. The Tarascon leaves for Evansville this afternoon. The Falls City had good trips from Louisville to Kentucky river yesterday. Capt. Abraham Lincoln is in command of the Gen. O. M. Poe in the Louisville river government service.

The City of Louisville brought down the cabin full of people Sunday night, and the City of Cincinnati took a big load of goods Sunday morning. Now that the season is open for the running of pleasure boats, it is well to learn how much did out of the way of steamboats, especially on Sunday. Quite a number of the non-steamboat boats are running, and some of them are carrying a good load of goods. Some of the boats are carrying a good load of goods, and some of them are carrying a good load of goods.

On the lower river, the boats are carrying a good load of goods, and some of them are carrying a good load of goods. "Business."
Monday Evening, May 13.—After early weakness the New York market reacted and became strong, final prices showing net gains.

Money on call was steady at 2 to 2 1/2 per cent, ruling at 2. Time loans were dull at 4 to 5. Sterling exchange was steady.
The Chicago wheat market was very strong, the July option closing up 1/4 cent, and 1 1/2c higher. Oats were up 1/4 to 3/4c.

The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 1/4 to 1/2 points. The market was strong and final prices were 10 to 20 points higher than the opening.
The Chicago cattle and sheep markets were steady. The hog market was steady to a shade lower.

The Santa Barbara Wreck.
The wreck on the Southern Pacific railroad near Santa Barbara and the scenes of distress and death that ensued bring once more to the front the wreck question, which has been one of great weight and wide discussion in recent months as a result of the series of disasters which have marked the past year.

Some of the accidents have been caused by the incompetence of train-men and the negligence of dispatchers, and others by defective equipment. The Southern Pacific disaster is traceable to the latter cause, a switch having been the portion of the equipment that was broken. When the manager or the operator is the man clearly behind the wreck it is easy to fix the blame, but when it is a piece of iron or steel that gives way and precipitates thirty or forty human beings to their death the task is not so simple. Does the blame belong to the foundry that made the rail, or the workmen who laid it, or the inspector who failed to detect the defect, or the general manager who employed that inspector, or the president who employed the general manager, or the stockholders who named the president? Is somebody at fault, or are fate and the forces of nature working in the metal responsible?

No one can successfully deny that accidents will occur on the best-regulated railroads, as, in the words of the proverb, they will happen in the best-regulated households. A railroad is operated by human agencies and in the nature of things human agencies cannot be infallible. And the tons of steel and iron that go into the making of their equipment are subject to natural forces which make for disintegration and unforeseen weaknesses. The best that the human agencies can do is to devote thoughtful, conscientious and painstaking attention to all the details of operation and to the condition of the equipment. Even with the closest attention and the best of materials accidents will be inevitable, but they will be infrequent.

The defect in the switch near Santa Barbara may have been there despite human foresight and care, and so the disaster may have been beyond the power of men to void. On the other hand, it possibly may have been detectable by the exercise of proper precaution. In such an event, the disaster is due to human negligence and not to uncontrollable processes of nature merely. A complete investigation of the accident is required to settle the question of liability. If men are directly responsible it is for them to undergo punishment; if nature, there is nothing to be done.

But whatever may be the outcome of the inquiry, the wreck is another powerful demonstration to railway managers of the necessity of a minute and constantly improving system of tracks and other equipment. Trains must not be run on rails too tight for them. Speed must not be attained beyond the capacity of the rails to withstand the pressure on them. Bolts and rivets must be secure. Chances must not be taken at any time, for chances are as apt to lead to destruction as to safety.

The recent indictment by a grand jury of the highest officials of the New York Central railroad as a result of a deadly track wreck on their line a short distance north of New York not long ago, will impress these men with the wisdom of establishing eternal vigilance as the price of safety. No matter how careful a system they thought they had maintained before they will realize that there may be still room for improvement. But such drastic action ought not to be necessary to teach officials that because there is no accident on a certain line to-day is no guarantee that there will be none to-morrow, and that provision for to-morrow should always be in mind.

The constant renewal of equipment is a heavy tax upon the resources of a railroad, and here enters the matter of the anti-railroad agitation that has been going on of late—but which apparently is waning. The agitators would be slow to hamper railroads to such an extent as to render it impossible for them to make the proper outlays for the newest and best equipment. Such a policy reacts upon the traveling public.
It will not pay to do anything which may render railroads less safe than they are at present.

Loyalty To Party.
Mr. Stealey tells us in his Washington letter of yesterday that there is, and has been for some time, a state of war between Mr. William Jennings Bryan and Mr. William Randolph Hearst.

This will come in the nature of news to most people. It was generally supposed the two were inseparable. The story went, though we cannot vouch for the truth of it, that in 1903, Mr. Hearst paid Mr. Bryan's expenses on his tour around the globe—as a special correspondent for the syndicate of Hearst newspapers—and that, on Mr. Bryan's return early in 1904 it was Mr.
Hearst who hired Madison Square Garden, where Mr. Bryan made his opening speech against the Eastern Democracy and poured hot shot into the proposed candidacy of Judge Parker.

The reason for the break between the Californian and the Nebraskan is thus explained by Mr. Stealey:

"William R. Hearst's friends say that the basis of his hostility to William J.
Bryan was Mr. Bryan's attitude in the last Democratic National Convention. For eight years, beginning in 1896, Mr.
Hearst's friends point out, he loyally supported Bryan, but when in the convention of 1904 Bryan was not a candidate for the nomination and Hearst was Bryan, instead of helping Hearst, gave his support to former United States Senator Cockrell, of Missouri, who by no possibility could have carried off the nomination."

As its readers know, the Courier-Journal has always regarded the Hearst candidacy for President of the United States—if it was not a novel and clever scheme of newspaper advertising—as sheer insanity.

For Mr. Hearst the Courier-Journal entertains nothing but personal good will. His candidacy for Mayor of New York and afterward for Governor of New York was justified at least by the attending circumstances and conditions. That a man of Mr. Hearst's resources and power should be willing to step down from an altitude so commanding into the bull-ring of the self-seeking politician—though regrettable from the standpoint of larger usefulness and nobler aspiration—was his own affair. There was in it nothing to affront the common intelligence. But, that a young man unthought of for President—without the least antecedent cue, or popular call—should set forth upon a Presidential crusade with nothing more than a check-book and a brass-band—for this was the measure of the Hearst candidacy in 1904—could be reconciled only with a topsy-turvy state of mind.

Except for this Mr. Hearst would perhaps have been elected Governor of New York. Thence his Presidential ambitions would have taken on a different complexion. But the very grotesqueness of the 1904 business gave a black eye to his gubernatorial candidacy in 1906. He may never outlive the discredit which cast upon his political character and his reputation for sense and judgment. Mr.
Hearst's papers may have derived a profit. But, if they did, their owner paid too dearly for it.

In the same letter Mr. Stealey goes on to tell us something about Mr. Bryan's attitude toward the next Democratic nomination for President. We quote:

"During his recent visit to Washington Mr. Bryan said to his intimate friends substantially this: 'If the Democratic party can pick out a man who can carry more weight than I in 1908, I will not stand against him. I will not stand against the success of my party, but I want it understood that the man selected must be a good organization Democrat who supported the ticket in 1896. No deserter will be tolerated in the party who need apply.'"

Accepting this as authentic—and there seems no reason to doubt it—the light, or rather the shadow it throws across the Democratic road ahead, is rather ominous. It reflects alike upon Mr. Bryan's good nature and his good sense. One would fancy that even if Mr. Bryan has not grown in wisdom with his growth of years, he would at least be tired of party dissension.

Talleyrand said of the Bourbons at a moment when they were making themselves impervious to his far-reaching counsels and thus impossible to France, "They forget nothing and remember nothing." Ever since the epigram has applied itself to impracticable men. The Bourbons lost everything. He is called a Bourbon, therefore, who gains nothing.

Very few of the Democratic leaders who in 1896 refused to follow the party into the Free Silver camp remain upon the scene. Most of them have passed from it. Those who survive are living in complete retirement, wanting nothing, expecting nothing, asking nothing.

Why should Mr. Bryan go out of his way to make distinctions where total oblivion is essential to perfect union and perfect union essential to carrying the country? Since none is seeking the nomination, whom would he bar from it? In case of his own nomination, would he set out by barring from his councils—in the event of his election—all Democrats save those who in 1896 favored the Free and Unlimited Coinage of Silver at the ratio of 16 to 1? This were to insure the loss of the election in advance.

When 1908 rolls round we shall be twelve years away from 1896. Twelve years is a generation in American politics. Millions of young Americans, who knew nothing of the agitations of 1896, have grown to manhood since. Would Mr. Bryan offer these voters the merest "blindfold" in a perpetual lawsuit? Would he feed them on the dry husks of a harvest which yielded nothing but famine?

And what can Mr. Bryan mean by "a good organization Democrat?" Was not Judge Parker "a good organization Democrat?" Yet Mr. Bryan, himself, in advance of the National Democratic Convention of 1904, went over the country sowing dragon's teeth across the pathway of one who, in spite of some differences of opinion, had loyally supported him in 1896. Just where is the line to be drawn if we are to split hairs over ancient history? Why not go back to 1860 and revive the issues of that fateful year? Free Silver is at least as dead as African slavery.

The Courier-Journal is a Democrat and nothing but a Democrat. It is a Democrat in the largest sense. It could not be anything else if it tried.
But, however it may regret the split of 1896, it has nothing to be ashamed of, or to repent of, as to its own part in the ill-starred campaign of that year.
Every word it said has come true. All its subsequent outgivings have vindicated its disinterested loyalty to its party, for, as the party has given ear to its counsels, the party has gained, whilst, whenever it has disregarded them, it has lost.

We want to see yet another National Democratic triumph. To that end we discounted all bygone disagreements and accepted Mr. Bryan for our leader a year ago. We meant it. We mean it still. Does not Mr. Bryan owe something to the cause of a leadership of which the unification of Democracy is the first essential? Does he not owe something especially to the Democrats of the South, who have stood by him so loyally?

With one voice the South says "no" to the proposed Government Ownership of the Railways. With one voice it says "no" to the Initiative and Referendum. And with one voice it says,
"Back to the Constitution." Would Mr.
Bryan turn away from the South and all chance of a Democratic victory short of some National cataclysm?

Mr. Bryan has enemies of his own, and these are neither idle nor silent.
They say that he is sacrificing his party to his lecture business. They say that he would rather be rich than be President. They say that the Republicans exploit him because they feel sure of being able always to beat him.
They say that he lent himself to orders which went from the State Department at Washington to the Foreign Embassies and Legations to make a great ado over him when he was abroad, the object being to keep him alive and at the front. Finally, they say he was not loyal to the ticket in 1904, having given an early signal to the extremists of the party to knife it, and having thus made sure of its defeat even before it was nominated.

What boots it now? Whether true or false, these things would count as nil-ting before a stream of buoyant, millions, advancing Democracy. His Republican's very charming personality, his reputation for cleanliness and probity and sincerity, his standing as a typical American from whom Theodore Roosevelt has not only learned his lesson, but whom Theodore Roosevelt has robbed of his plumage, make him still a potential figure in our public life.

It is frequently given out that Mr.
Bryan does not want the nomination next year. Certainly, unless he can unite the party, it would do him more harm than good. If he does not crave the kingship, however, he may not be averse to playing the role of Warwick, and, in that event, we can tell him of a Democrat who, without entangling alliances with any of the Money Powers, yet without any antecedents which could drive away conservative Democrats, fills the specification made in Mr.
Stealey's Washington letter exactly; "a good organization Democrat who supported the ticket in 1896;" who, in our judgment, could still the discords and restore the harmonies, yea, all the loose sails of the Old Ship of Zion with hopeful gales, and perhaps prove an Abraham Lincoln to the lost sheep of the house of Jefferson and Jackson and Tilden.

He does not live East of the Alleghanies, either, nor south of the Potomac and the Ohio.

Hughes Plays It Alone.

News comes simultaneously from Washington and New York that there are strained political relations between the President and Gov. Hughes, of New York. It had been heralded that sundry acts of distribution of Federal patronage were done with the intent of strengthening the hands of Gov.
Hughes in his fight with certain elements of his party in the State. This brought out the statement that the Governor resented any such interference, ostensibly in his behalf. He was expected to take prompt action in denying this, but he failed to speak, and there are those who say that his silence means consent to the assertion that he did consent to it. The Administration is said to resent this disposition of the Governor of New York to do business without the active support of the President, and there is manifested an anxiety to know what he means by it.

Gov. Hughes is reported to have won his fight with the hostile elements in the Republican party of New York.
The extent of his victory may be still in doubt, but there certainly has been a marked disposition among the people recently hostile to profess devotion to the Governor. It is not unnatural that the Federal Administration should desire to claim credit for this, and should want to get the usufruct. It is significant, however, that the victory, whatever it may have been, was not achieved until after the Governor was reported not to desire the aid of the Administration. Whether this contributed to reconcile the hostile elements is a question that may be debated. It happens that some of the elements opposed to the Governor are also the enemies of the Federal Administration, and, therefore, an alliance might, at first blush, seem very desirable. But, on the other hand, an assurance that there is no alliance might go far to conciliate the enemies of the Administration and make them more friendly to the policy of the Governor.

We are told also that it was the policy at Washington to co-operate with the Governor in naming the next delegation to the Republican National Convention. Here is where politics come in.
It might happen that the Administration, in its co-operation, would desire to send delegates in favor of a particular candidate, and the Governor might want men of a different temper, He might want men, for example, who would favor his own candidature, not merely formally, but who would stand by him to the last extremity. The Administration might want a delegation that would support its favorite, or that would give a complimentary vote to Gov. Hughes, and then hasten to get rid of him. Such things have happened in politics frequently, and they are often deliberately planned. A favorite son is induced formally, and then a delegation is named that will hasten to betray him at the first opportunity. It is not singular, therefore, that Gov.
Hughes may not desire co-operation in the matter of the New York delegation to the national convention.

It may be that Gov. Hughes doubts the policy of forming a combination with Washington to control New York politics. There is an impressive precedent to show that such an alliance may be fatal to success in the State. But it may also be that, taking a higher and broader view of the situation, the Governor thinks that the reforms which he champions at home may be best effected without any complication with Federal politics. His apparent triumph over the hostile elements at home may be due to quite other causes than the proposed help of the Federal Government, and, if so, he naturally wishes credit to go where credit is due, and not to give it to those who did not contribute to his success. It may be that he is not yet out of the woods, for politicians are uncertain, but he apparently thinks that he can do better by going it alone.

The extent to which the Federal Administration desires to control matters in the various States has gone far beyond any precedents. Naturally, there is a reaction in progress. Even some of the hottest supporters of the Roosevelt system can see that there ought to be some limit to Federal activity, that States and communities ought to have some control of their own affairs, even if they should happen to dissent from the views of one man at Washington who aspires to be a universal genius. How this is going to work out it is difficult to predict, but there is certainly ample room for dissension. If Gov. Hughes insists on playing a lone hand, it is hard to see how he can be prevented from carrying out his purpose, and to defeat him would probably be as disastrous to the Administration as it would be to him, for it would mean a triumph for the elements which oppose the President and his policy.

She Had Promised To Obey.
The St. Louis Judge who ordered the acquittal of a woman charged with writing lottery tickets, because she had done so at the command of her husband, whom she had sworn at the time of marriage to "love, honor and obey," arouses the imagination to the startling possibilities of that feature of the common marriage service. Having pledged, in the presence of witnesses, obedience to her husband's will, this defendant goes free by showing that she simply had carried out that pledge and obeyed him. The responsibility for her act is thus thrown upon her husband. If anybody is guilty of the misdemeanor, it is he.

To what length in crime may a married woman go and find exemption on rid of.

the plea of obedience to her husband?
Were he to command her to commit murder, should the Judge, following the doctrine of the St. Louis interpreter of the law, set her free and punish only the man for giving her such a criminal command? Should the pledge of obedience gain for her immunity for perpetrating any crime in the category?

Some women shy at the word "obey" in the marriage ceremony; they think it binds them to a species of slavery, and so they arrange with the officiating minister or Magistrate to omit it from the text. In the St. Louis instance we find that it proved the salvation of the woman. It is presumed that it was established in court that the defendant actually used the word in the service which linked her fortunes with those of her lord and master; if she had had it omitted, and, in consequence, could not make the plea she did, she would have been forced to take her punishment as a convicted culprit. Lucky for her that she made that promise to "obey."

It will be pretty generally thought that the position of the St. Louis Judge is rather far-fetched. In enjoining upon a bride obedience to her husband the wedding service hardly contemplates the imposition of obedience to commands that she commit crime. That would be a distortion of the purpose of the vow and a strained interpretation of the whole matter. Heretofore it has been assumed that no one can be legally forced to violate the law, and that if the law be broken, no matter what the circumstances might be—unless, of course, the circumstances be physical force and duress—the violator must stand the consequences. A wife and husband concerned in a crime like that in St. Louis would be considered, according to that view, jointly guilty.

In placing a marriage vow in direct antagonism to the law, the St. Louis defendant, at all events, gives the world in general and the doctors of law in particular something novel to think about.

A new agricultural industry is to be introduced in Louisiana. As the result of investigations made by the Department of Agriculture it is proposed to plant on one or more farms in the rice belt, as an experiment, the Japanese mating grass, which, it is believed, can be successfully grown there. It grows three or four feet high in water and requires the same kind of culture as rice, being planted by the Japanese after the rice is harvested. All the matting used in this country, to the value of $5,000,000 a year, is made in Japan from grass raised in that country and China. At present the United States buys 90 per cent. of the Japanese product. There is a duty on the article of three cents a yard for that costing less than ten cents, and seven cents per yard on that costing over ten cents. The only danger to be apprehended in case this experiment proves successful is that Congress will be asked to favor the infant industry with a high protective tariff, and that instead of making matting cheaper by the increased product will operate to exclude the imported article and to enable the home producers to put their own price on it just as the iron and steel men do on their products.

One of the most pleasing features of Washington life in the spring, according to the Washington Post, is the variety of out-door sports that can be indulged in by old and young. One of them, by the way, is venturing into the White House yard and trying to keep two jumps ahead of "Pete" until you can shin up a maple tree.

Two highwaymen who held up a Cin-cinnatian got his car fare for their trouble.
Highwaymen operating between Churchill Downs and the business section of Louisville are respectfully advised that pedestrians north bound are not likely to prove so profitable.

"Silent Jim" Smith rewarded all of his servants of five years' standing by remembering them in his will. To the average householder a feat of that sort would be rendered difficult chiefly because of the nonexistence of the servant who stands hitherto for that length of time.

After Kuroki came the Duke of Abruzi to visit the President, and doubtless the two distinguished foreigners are still wondering why the Washington reporters hung upon the words of John L. Sullivan, but paid no more than respectful attention to their remarks.

The Fort Dodge girl who knocked a footpad down and held him by the throat till her yells attracted three policemen to the scene probably thought she had captured an able-bodied bachelor.

Safe blowers looted an Indiana bank and got $750. At a plumbing establishment they got $750. Evidently the plumber and the bank rejoiced in the same clientele.

Clevelanders "suspect" George B. Cox of having acted with selfish motives, which it must be admitted, is a somewhat modest and quite respectful guess.

Standard Oil has been found guilty

The Chicago story writer who wanted short story was regarded by the Judge

FIRE DAMAGES

Louisville Malt Company In New Albany.

JAIL PRISONER THREATENED WITH LOCKJAW.

NOTED WILL CASE COMING UP AT CORYDON.

DULL TERM IN FLOYD COURT.

The big plant of the Louisville Malt Company at 215 East Eighteenth street, New Albany, caught fire in the roof of the malt building yesterday morning at 2 o'clock and in less than an hour it looked as if the five-story brick structure, erected at a cost of more than $50,000, would be destroyed, together with stock and material, the value of $100,000. By active work the New Albany fire department succeeded in confining the flames to that portion of the building in which they originated. It was thought that the loss on stock would be $10,000, but after an examination was made, it was found that the malt injured would not exceed $5,000, while the damage to the building will be $500.

The fire is thought to have originated by a spark from a passing engine, as it started in the roof.

HONORS SHOWN GEN. KUROKI.

Norfolk, Va., May 12.—The celebration to-day on Jamestown Island, forty miles up the James river, of the 300th anniversary of the landing there of the first permanent English settlers under Sir Christopher Newport, John Smith and others, took place to-day under fair skies and conditions in every way auspicious.

The exercises on the island were directed under the auspices of the Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities. Joseph Bryson, of Richmond, Va., presided, and the invocation was offered by Bishop Randolph, of the diocese of Southern Virginia. The opening address was delivered by Gov. Swanson, of Virginia, and British Ambassador Bryce followed with an address, the subject of which was "Greetings From the Old World to the New."

The celebration at the Jamestown Exposition to-day was ushered in by the firing of a salute of seventeen guns from Fort Monroe incident to the arrival at Old Point Comfort at 10 a. m. of Gen. Baron Kuroki, his staff and party, accompanied by Gen. O. E. Wood as official escort. Gen. Kuroki is the first Japanese general to visit the United States.

The foreign bands played the "Star Spangled Banner" as they passed the reviewing stand on the Lee parade grounds, and the outburst of applause from the thousands of spectators greeted the arrival of the Japanese delegation.

The parade of the army and navy, which was the first of the day, was a magnificent sight. The army was led by Gen. Kuroki, and the navy by the Japanese fleet. The parade was a great success, and the Japanese delegation was well received.

COTTON.          New York, N. Y., May 13, 1907.—Mr. James Patten, of Chicago, probably the most successful operator in the commodity markets of America, has to-day publicly announced that he will not trade until wheat is $1.50 a bushel and	FINANCIAL.  J. otton sells at 14 cents a pound. While the announcement has created more of a stir than an announcement of this kind attracts wide attention because of all the Chicago operators Mr. Patten is most conspicuous. It is known to be a man who means what he says. The truth is that the American speculative public is just coming to appreciate the two facts. First, that the exceptionally unpropitious weather of the spring has made cotton production in the United States a perilous proposition. Second, that the crop of cereal crops next year is impossible. And second, that the increasing gold price will bring on a new wave of general inflation. Expressed in units of labor the cost of production gold is today perhaps ten times what it was twenty years ago. Expressed in units of labor the cost of agricultural production is much higher than it was twenty years ago. It follows undoubtedly that the value of agricultural products, and especially of terms of trade, will not advance. The mining camp, where four sells at $40 a barrel, because gold is scarce, is a good example of the situation. It is but a microcosm of an international situation that will presently be discussed. The American cotton export is concerned, it seems to me that the advance has only just commenced. The selling price of American cotton at the end of the present season will probably be less than the world's requirements for the month of March. The cotton is late, and the present crop will have to supply thirteen months' consumption, it is probable that the face of the market will be less than an American crop of 33,600,000 bales will prevent a situation gradually moving towards famine in the South, by which the next crop fails to reach this market.

We believe purchasers of good bonds at present prices will get handsome increases in the near future. The average rate is now lower than it has been in years.

COTTON.          New York, N. Y., May 13, 1907.—Mr. James Patten, of Chicago, probably the most successful operator in the commodity markets of America, has to-day publicly announced that he will not trade until wheat is $1.50 a bushel and	FINANCIAL.  J. undoubtedly that the value of agricultural products, and especially of terms of trade, will not advance. The mining camp, where four sells at $40 a barrel, because gold is scarce, is a good example of the situation. It is but a microcosm of an international situation that will presently be discussed. The American cotton export is concerned, it seems to me that the advance has only just commenced. The selling price of American cotton at the end of the present season will probably be less than the world's requirements for the month of March. The cotton is late, and the present crop will have to supply thirteen months' consumption, it is probable that the face of the market will be less than an American crop of 33,600,000 bales will prevent a situation gradually moving towards famine in the South, by which the next crop fails to reach this market.

We believe purchasers of good bonds at present prices will get handsome increases in the near future. The average rate is now lower than it has been in years.

the retail stores in and around New York City. In the late afternoon the jobbers were busy. Many orders were large for the season. In the cotton goods markets the prices were generally steady and prices are hardening. Some leading lines of light piece goods are in order for fall. New lines of black dress goods from foreign and domestic mills are being shown.
